Redcliff Young Lady Married Last Sunday

Parrell—Benjamin

A very pretty wedding took place on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 8th, 1938, at the lovely farm house of the groom's uncle, Mr. Gaston Mower, about ten miles south of Medicine Hat, when Laverne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Benjamin of Redcliff became the bride of Mr. George Parrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Parrell of Medicine Hat district.

The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, bells and streamers for the occasion, and an altar with candles and flowers had been arranged very effectively at the end of the living room, before which the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Butcher of St. Barnabas Anglican Church, Medicine Hat.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of glory blue crepe velvet with white accessories and carried a bouquet of gladioli and snapdragons.

The only attendants were the groom's sister, Miss Eva Parrell and the uncle of the groom, Mr. Gaston Mower.

After the ceremony some thirty guests, relatives of the young couple sat down to a sumptuous wedding supper.

The bride's table was tastefully decorated and was centered by a lovely three tier wedding cake bearing on its summit a single bride and groom with white and pink trimmings.

Amid the congratulations and good wishes of their friends the happy couple left for their new home in Medicine Hat.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Pedersen celebrated their Silver Wedding anniversary yesterday.

During the severe electric storm on Tuesday night, the telephone wire on C.T. Hall's residence was struck by lightning which caused a fire to break out in the basement. Fortunately Mr. Hall was able to extinguish the flames before any serious damage was done.

Extols Virtue Of Honey

New York Doctor Considers It Most Valuable Food

Honey is "Nature's own sweet, untainted by human hands," according to Dr. Hodge Beck, writing in his book, "Honey and Health."

"Honey and other simple and natural sugars, like that in dates, figs, raisins, etc., are pure physiological sugars which contain the germs of life, while industrial sugars are anti-physiological, dead, or, as a matter of fact, murdered sweets," he writes.

Pursuing this line of thought, Dr. Beck deems honey in hot water better than alcohol as a quick pick-up, he says that the ancient Greek athletes wisely used it before entering the arena; that it prolongs life, being responsible for Aaron's living to the age of 115, Pythagoras to 90, and probably for the long life of Moses and Methuselah, while Thomas Parr, who died in 1653, at the age of 152, was devoted to a honey diet known as methagen.

It is a good expectorant, according to Hippocrates; a diuretic, according to the Hindus; a cathartic, according to Norman Douglas; an anti-rheumatic, according to Dr. Beck's correspondence with Dr. Marion, Ind.; an anti-diabetic, according to Dr. A. V. Davidson, of Kansas; a bactericide, according to Chinese and the Hindus, and a New York State subscriber to the American Bee Journal; it is also an excellent preservative and one of the finest comestibles. And the date is the only edible substance which surpasses honey in calories.

Had Celebrities For Clients

Man Who Built Huge Candle For Carcase Is Dead

Antonio Ajello, 78, one of the world's leading candlemakers, whose clients included Enrico Caruso, Col. Chase, Lindbergh, Mussolini and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, is dead.

In his New York workshops were preserved many of the craft secrets of the medieval guilds, including the arts of tinning candles, performing them, and sculpturing them. He came here from Italy at the age of two. When Caruso died, he built a candle, 18 feet high, five feet in circumference. It cost $2,700 and it burned a year in a church in Pompeii.

Fancier Was Surprised

Templed by a tale of Stockholm, a tourist passing through Glend, Ont., recently stopped and picked a few ears. The farmer, plowing a few hours later, was surprised to see an envelope tucked to a fence post. Still more surprised was he when he opened the envelope, and found it contained a dollar bill and a note reading, "Thanks for the corn."

During the Civil War

The North maintained one of the longest blockades in history. The longest was 2,500 miles long and was held, for the most part, by merchant ships.

CANADIAN VOLUNTEERS RETURN FROM THE SPANISH FRONT

Re-patriated to Canada under the general repatriation scheme the Spanish Government is putting into effect for foreign volunteers, the above group of Canadians, most of them having served for the past two years in the Mackenzie-Papineau or the Lincoln battalions on the Loyalist side, returned to Canada on the "Empress of Britain." They are, from left to right: Joseph Laurin, of Toronto; Walter Woodman, of Port William; David Harvey, of Vancouver; and John Kottasaratna, of Toronto. Standing: John Gledhill, of Vancouver; Ben Stefank, of Toronto; Lloyd Evans, of Regina; James Wilson, of Edmonton, and James Hayden, of Winnipeg. Some of the boys admitted they were "war weary."

Seems Quiet Enough

Americana Writer Found No War

This story by Ernest L. Meyer appeared in the New York Post:

I arrived in London under a misapprehension. Judging from the war scare stories printed in the American press this year, I imagined that the city policeman the road to the nearest bombproof shelter.

In my two days in London I have seen no gas masks and no refuge from air bombs, though I understand a model bomb and gas-proof shelter is being exhibited somewhere, mostly, I suspect, for the benefit of tourists and for an admission fee.

Because the British have a habit of exalting admission fees for all sort of points of interest from the chapel in Westminster to the historic tavern where Dr. Johnson splashed his wet wit with a schooner of beer.

Now I have wandered about considerably in London and talked to sundry citizens ranging from college professors to taxi drivers, and nowhere have I found evidence that the average London resident is living in a state of jitter with one eye turned to the zenith in search of a Zeppelin.

In fact, the average male from Piccadilly to points east and west walks the streets briskly and confidently with apparently no foreigner in his eye except to pause to foreigners to ask a question or to borrow a bowler and swing a tightly-rolled umbrella and still look like the backbone of an Empire.

There are compensations in everything. A glass eye, for example, never catches cold from the draft through a keyhole.

Thirty-four per cent. of the world's coal resources are in Chile. The United States has about 20 per cent.

An Insulin Herb
Old Indian Remedy Being Investigated By Doctors

Possibility of a new source of insulin, obviating the necessity of hypodermic injections for diabetes, is seen in the experiments of Dr. R. G. Lange and Dr. H. M. Brockway of Prince Rupert, B.C., with an old Indian herb remedy. The report's results are reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal and deal with the growth of "devil's club" a shrub that grows wild on the Pacific coast. Made by boiling bark from the plant roots, the extract, taken through the mouth, has given remarkable results in reducing sugar in the blood of diabetic rabbits, the article said.

The doctors' attention was drawn to the remedy through use of it by a patient, with apparently good results.—Brandon Star.

Quite Forgotten

Man Who Spoke Advertising Is Like

This College Professor

A superannuated Toronto University professor went to Europe for a year immediately after his release—the after 40 years with the University. When he returned, he went to Hart House to luncheon, and fully expected that his old professional associates would greet him as the Prodigal Son was greeted by his father. But with a single exception, all the men present paid not the returned professor was hurt by the non-welcome, and had the grace to make a small fuss over him.

As I intended to take I thought of how an advertiser who sought to keep himself in the public eye and favor only by persistent advertising. Let him quit advertising, and the public forgives him as quickly as it forgives the dead.—C. K. in Marketing.

The World's Great Need

Is Enlightened Leadership Which Today's Youth Must Furnish

If there is one commodity in which the world is short today, it is enlightened leadership, states the Rocket Magazine. The need is written in every new day's headlines. As men and citizens we should be looking ahead to preparing enlightened leadership for tomorrow. And from whence will it come if not from the ranks of healthy, normal boys, the good of parents; the products of the hard-won advantages of our civilization?

New Sun Dial

Vancouver Man Devises Method To Prevent Lapse Of Time

Sun dials, which were in use as time markers far back in ancient days, are still studied by modern man in use in modern countries.

N. D. Ingleton Phillips, Vancouver, has devised a sun dial which keeps mean time, which is now on the grounds of a dairy farm near Vancouver. It is of the most simple construction, and Mr. Phillips says that one can be made and installed for a few dollars.

It is explained that the ordinary sun dial does not give away exactly four times a year. The sun dial, now going a little slower, now a little faster, will be sometimes behind and sometimes before the clock, the greatest accumulated time being about sixteen minutes in November.

Mr. Phillips' dial keeps meantime all the year round, without needing any alterations or readjustments, and it has no moving parts. When plotted for a certain latitude, it may be used anywhere on, or near to that latitude, either in the north or south hemisphere, and only a watch and sun are needed for setting it up.

A further interesting feature is that it can show the date, or the hours. These functions are accomplished by Mr. Phillips having used the apex of a triangular gnomon for his indicating shadow. The hours are marked out in the figure of "8," color of red and black. The red half of the "8" is used for the first half of the year, and the black is ignored, and vice versa for the second half.

The face of the dial is curved in the shape of "8," the shadow of the apex at the early and late hours of the day.

Opinion Worth Heeding

Swing Music Harmful To Good Taste

States Authority

Whenever one perceives sneers or hears derogatory remarks directed against young people springing to swing music, the usual response is to say, "Ah, well, let the kids have their fun. It's harmless." But we are not so sure of our position.

That the highest authority in the dance world has spoken, swing is harmful and degenerate, says Donald Grant, president of the Dancin' Teachers Business Association, at the annual convention of the organization in New York.

There is no question here of morals; the harm is to good taste, grace and poise, and the degeneration has to do with style.

Because of the great influence he has on the dance masters, they could find scope for crusading "in your own town, your own province and your own country."

Newspapers in many countries of the world are not newspapers in the true sense of the word because they are under such tight control, MacTavish said.

That perhaps the greatest danger confronting journalism is that is achieving a degree of material success will lose the crusading spirit which is the hallmark of worthy journalism.

Because of the great influence he has on the dance masters, they could find scope for crusading "in your own town, your own province and your own country."

Duty Of A Newspaper

Is To Protect Against Wrongdoings

Vancouver Editor

W. L. MacTavish, editor of the Vancouver Daily Province, told the annual meeting of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association that it was the business of editors to see that there was shadow of truth in the published capitalism out of the conviction that it was the most satisfactory economic system yet evolved in the present state of the world's progress and added:

"But let it never be said of us that we have lost the power of protest against the abuses of capitalism and have forgotten its weaknesses and need to fight against its injustices and inequalities."

The struggle of the free press was fought largely for the purpose of speaking out the wrongs and woes of the underprivileged, he said.

It is our calling to search out that which calls for protest in the conditions of our world and to voice that protest on behalf of those who are otherwise voiceless," he said.

Most of the world's progress was due to the successful struggle "or that struggle, he said. "The great men of our calling have left us with a heritage in the form of a record of usefulness in the service of humanity."

French Woman Arranges Flowers

For Royal Visitors To Paris

Madame Charlot, who has been in charge of floral decorations for all royal visitors to Paris since the early nineteen hundreds, is a bright vivacious little woman full of gaiety, wit, with a stupendous knowledge of flowers and a flair for arranging them. She was entrusted with all the floral decorations of the Palace d'Elisee for the recent visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, writes Noel Thompson in the London Daily Sketch.

Although it was the first time that 200 guests were seated at the great banquet table in the Salle des Fetes, Madame Charlot was not overawed by the task of decorating it. She has done so for over 30 years, under more Presidents than I can tell you without referring to a history book.

All the time she talked she was making garlands of deep red roses to cover crown-shaped baskets that were placed at intervals, down the great table. There were 7,000 blooms. Between the crowns, which had deep red roses climbing up the sides and clusters of pink ones at the top, there was a massive carpet of red roses, trails of which adorned the table between exquisite little 18th-century Sevres vases.

Besides the helter-skelter there were lovely crystal bowls, by Lalique, filled with pink roses. At the head of the table, where the Majesty sat with the President and Mme. Leclerc, orchids were mingled with the roses.

Dinner was served on Sevres plates of deep blue with gold stars. For dessert there were Sevres plates decorated with every known type of bird in lovely colouring.

Beyond The Century

One Man Reached Age Of 113

According To Science Today

A French-Canadian who died early in the 19th century lived longer than any other person whose claims have been submitted to scientific tests. Dr. Maurice Regnier, biologist and expert on the subject of old age, said in a letter to the London Times.

The letter was inspired by the announced of Sir John Harris, secretary to the Anti-Slavery and Abolition Society, and other members of the Centenary Club, of a native believed to be at least 140 years old in a letter to the London Times.

Has Been Banner Year

Gideon Society Distributed 81,000

Bibles In Last Twelve Months

During the past 12 months a casual reader of the news might conclude that the harsh voices of material echoed a world rushing headlong to doom; rushing away from the spiritual sanctuaries of unselfish love. The world's clamor is evident. At times it may seem to drown the "still, small voice" of spiritual aspiration. Yet the past year, despite all its adversity, records a triumph for the Gideon Society of 81,000 Bibles. This is a substantial increase. The yearly average over the last 30 years has been only 50,000. The Bibles have been placed beside hospital beds, in hotel rooms, in employment agencies, on school desks, in prison cells. The vast material of the age, showing itself in pagan, in criminal, in the broken disregard of human rights, is driving men and women to seek refuge. Millions seek it in temperance societies. Other millions are turning to the Bible in the recognition that no terror or cruelty of this life, no dull loss of unemployment or despair, but can be lightened and even healed by recourse to the practice of Bible truths. — Christian Science Monitor.

The chemical industry is practically depression proof, according to one chemist, because it is continually producing new industrial lines.

James—Have you ever noticed how a woman always lowers her voice when she says a favor?

White—Yes, and raises it when she doesn't get it.

The Mechanized Farm

Makes Things Better If Idea Is

According To House To

The Lettbridge Herald Says It

Deuchman, M.P., who has been traveling through the West, learned from a prominent Manitoba farmer that it is easier to get a good hired man when the farm is fully mechanized.

The old-fashioned hired man,

Deuchman is satisfied, as dead as a livestock, in his place is the mechanic, who will spend the wet days on the farm tinkering with an engine or trying to produce something which reduces the sum total of human effort necessary to effect a purpose. But the hired man is not the only one who wants a mechanized farm—the farmer's wife wants it —so does the daughter—the home must be mechanized.

It is all understandable. There will be more contentment on a farm when there are more mechanical devices there to ease the life of the farmer and his wife. When the wasting and the tiring and churning can be done by electrical devices, as it is in the city, the farmer's wife will not feel that she is a drudge and be envious of the women in the city. The mechanized farm home is coming; in some parts of the continent it has already arrived.

Salt Shortage

Spanish War Causes A Difficult

Situation In Newfoundland

Refusal of Spanish Insurgent General Franco to allow a Russian steamer to enter the port of Cadix has caused a difficult situation among Newfoundland fishermen.

The ship was chartered to bring more than 20,000 head of salt to St. John's. Delay in bringing the salt added to the difficulties of the fishermen, already troubled with a shortage while the ice was reported in abundance along the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts.

The majority refused to allow the ships to stop at port on the grounds she had carried war materials to the Government forces. A ship of British registry was engaged to carry the salt.

Butler Production Up

Saskatchewan Output For July

Record For Single Month

a new record for any single month of the year, of 317,201 pounds over the July production last year, or 7.5 per cent. The previous high month of production was 4,328,446 pounds. Two-the central area, though even the

Sergeant Terry began asking questions.

"You came here on the same train with her, didn't you?"

"Well, I guess I did. If it's the girl I'm thinking of said Annie.

"She isn't one of your outfit?"

"Mine?" Annie asserted. "No sir."

"What did she say you let the girl go to up here?"

Annie blushed.

"Start a little story, of course."

"They all start stories. Or a beauty shop. Or work for somebody," the sergeant replied, in a voice mildly cynical.

"Who are you talking about?" queried Hammond.

"A girl named Jeanne Towers. Been working over at the Cafe de Paris."

"Anything wrong with her?"

"Annie stiffened, with a queer air of protective ferocity.

"No, there isn't anything wrong with her. Why don't you let the girl go through? She isn't doing nothing to nobody."

The sergeant laughed.

"Take it easy, Annie," he said.

"I'm not accusing her. I'm just trying to get a line on her—it's a long way to the Skitine."

"Suppose it is?"

"You wouldn't want me to let somebody go in there that wasn't equipped?"

"What do you mean equipped?"

"Didn't she borrow clothes from you when you got off the train?"

"Around the World Annie said a derogative glance at Hammond. His eyes signalled anxiety—that he had told nothing.

"Where'd you get that?" he asked the policeman.

"Oh, some of the men told me fellows who were standing around."

"A lot of business it is of their. Now listen—you can ask these girls. I never saw the girl before in my life. I got to talk to her."

"She told me she'd lost her pack sack. I had some extra shoes. She brought 'em and paid me for 'em. Anything wrong with that?"

"Nothing at all," he said. "I just wanted to be sure the girl wasn't taking chances."

He rose then and stooped through the entrance. Hammond started from the stove, halting momentarily at the look in around the World Annie's eyes. Signalled, he moved close to her.

"Listen, the poor little dame's down on her luck," she whispered. "I don't know what about. Get her through."

"Coming, Jack?" called the sergeant from outside. In answer, Hammond moved, through the crackling flap and joined the mounted policeman. They went on, along a long trail.

"What's this girl's name again?" Hammond asked.

"Jeanne Towers—I think it's an assumed."

"Why?"

"Oh—she's disgraced with thick mittens an unpleasant expression of police intuition. Then, 'Know her?'"

"I think so. Nice-looking girl. Sort of elegant hair, handsome brown eyes. If I remember right."

"Trim built—that's the one. You intelligent looking to be working as a haberd."

"Oh, yes, you mentioned the Cafe de Paris."

October 12 and 26
Cut out this notice and save it for reference.

Messrs. Dave Broadfoot and Cyril Hay have purchased a fine large truck with which they are hauling wheat for various years pure grain and of assured quality in Medicine Hat.

Mrs. H. Mericle of Taber and Mrs. E. A. Ray, of Calgary have been visiting here at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aler.
Patterson for the past week.
Mrs. Mericle's twin sons also have been visiting their grandparents here while their mother was in Calgary.

There is a great crop of garden stuff in town this year.
Tomatoes particularly have been very abundant and of large size and splendid quality. Mr.
Sandy Thompson brought us a bag of beauties this week which would be hard to beat in any man's country to say nothing of the drought area.
